the high seas, being especially desired. The President has been wonderfully patient and indulgent with Germany and any member of Congress who opposes him now in the only logical stand it is possible for him to take, should be rejected by his constituents and forever relegated to civil life. P. F. H.

Senatorial Curiosity.

Editor of The Washington Herald: The greatest curiosity in the world is a woman's. I have always been a woman, but have just found out that it is a great mistake. If you don't believe it, take yourself up to the Capitol some day when one of the Senate orators is booked for a speech, and watch when the flowers come in. A page places a basket of exquisite oxalis on the desk of the favored Senator, who has not yet taken his seat. Now look! See how rapidly one Senator after another shuffles up to the flowers. What for? To inhale the fragrance of the choice tube and tea roses. No indeed; not a Senatorial nose is embedded among the roses. That card with the blue ribbon attached, hanging so gracefully from the basket handle, is the all-absorbing point of attraction. Eagerly it is clutched, read, dropped, and the satisfied embodiment of curiosity sneaks off as if half afraid some one saw him. Talk no more of woman's curiosity. It pales to nothingness in the light of a Senator's. MISS NETTLES.

The High Count of Votes.

Editor of The Washington Herald: Your editorial, "A High Count of Votes," is most highly commendable and eminently to the point. The self-anointed and self-appointed modernist of the day would be amusing were it not for the fact that there may be some, perhaps many, who are led astray by the vapors of a mind that only discovers the mote in "thy neighbor's eye," and whose Christianity is fashioned after the inverted making of God to the image of man, and who would have this "Land of Liberty" made a tinsel prison verging into hades. A MODERN CYNIC.

The Prohibition Advocates.

Editor of The Washington Herald: In a recent issue of your paper I find an editorial commenting on an appeal of Rev. Mr. Crafts to the Representatives for constitutional prohibition, etc., on the ground that 40,000,000 church members desired it. You clash with Mr. Crafts and say the church members do not want prohibition. According to your statement (and it seems authentic), it must be the nonprofessional people who want prohibition. Do they want it for themselves, or do they want it for the benefit of their Christian friends? You say Congress is pretty well acquainted with the man who "represents all the people." I find that the Representatives do pretty much as they please. And they are about the only class of men who can do as they please.

The people send men to Congress and expect them to work for the best interest of all the people. Do they do it? Does it look that way? I think this country is about in the same predicament as the world was in the days of the Prophet, Amos. We often hear people say history repeats itself, and it seems its does. If anyone will take the time to read the book of the Prophet Amos, he will find a very strong comparison to the present time in this beloved country of ours. And, what happened then, can happen now. NEWCOMER.

A Warning.

Editor of The Washington Herald: Nervy little Mexico has halted us at Faral and said: "So far and no farther." Why not take the hint and get out while they may let us ride in the cars—for if they take our boots we'll never be able to walk? But, if we do get our soldiers back, don't let's declare war on Germany. What if the Kaiser should say: "Naughty, naughty?" HENRY C. STUART.

Why Not All "Clean Up?"

Editor of The Washington Herald: In the campaign just now under way, when public-spirited citizens are uniting to "clean up and paint up" the nation's most interesting and popular show-place, it does seem a rank injustice, to say the least, that vacant property owners are not altogether efficient or they would not tolerate these transgressions of a law which means so much to the sanitation and beauty of the Nation's Capital.

Just to mention one instance, I noticed yesterday in passing along L street a small front yard indescribably filthy—broken crockery, tin cans, disgusting rags, and piles of accumulated refuse in every available place—while the adjoining yards on either side were perfectly spick and span. Does this seem at all right and fair that those who obey the law and keep their own premises cleanly and attractive should be obliged, through the carelessness or parsimony of the owner of vacant property next door to gaze upon and breathe the exhalations from such decaying refuse under their very noses? This is not an isolated case, either. There are many such unpleasant and odoriferous eyecores on some of the most prominent streets in the Nation's Capital. ELEANOR WARNER.

Democrats and Colored Votes.

Editor of The Washington Herald: It seems that Bishop Walters' critics will never get through with talking about the great mistake he made in leading his people in support of the Democratic party in 1912. We are quite certain that if Bishop Walters made any mistake at all, it was the fault of the brains and not of the heart. He is a thorough race man, and one whose Godly and political judgment has never before been questioned. The bishop was sincere in his effort, to bring about a division along political lines among his race, which we, too, thought at the time was a good thing. By his earnest labors the good bishop, aided by such powerful and influential men of his race as the Revs. G. C. Clement, editor of the Star of Zion; J. Milton Waldron, of this city, and many others, converted thousands of colored voters to accept the Democratic faith.

They were told by the enemies of the Democratic party that that party was simply using them as a stepping stone to secure the national election, that they (the colored voters) would not be recognized at all after the day of election if the Democrats should happen to win. Disregarding the prophecy, the bishop, determined to lead his people out of political bondage, went right on fighting among his people for the success of the party which has since discovered a scheme by which it can best help the negro people by ignoring everything which seems to be his God-given rights as an American citizen.

From what we can learn the colored brother has lost faith in the old adage, "If at once you don't succeed try, try again." For this time twelve months ago there were colored democratic clubs being organized in nearly every State in this Union for the support of the party which is now in power. But they don't seem now to be trying again! The colored voters seem to be quite willing to cherish the ambitions of their Democratic friends. They supported them loyally by their votes in the 1912 election. Now, if they can be of better service to them (the Democrats) in the coming election by supporting their enemies instead of them, why they seem to be quite willing to do that also. Maybe our Democratic friends have

CLAIMS IT HAS MADE A NEW WOMAN OF HER

Remarkable Results Obtained By Washington Lady From
Use of Dreco.

"I lately I have been troubled with a sluggish liver, nervousness, constipation, my tongue was coated all the time, my breath bad, and a nasty taste in my mouth. At times I had severe headaches and was generally run down," said Mrs. E. T. Bulor, of 1211 D street northeast, a very popular and well-known lady in that neighborhood. "A friend of mine insisted that I take Dreco as she had great confidence in it, so I got a bottle and it has just made a new woman of me. It has stirred my liver to a healthy action, stopped the headaches and relieved the constipation. My breath is sweet now and the bad taste in my mouth is never noticed. I feel better all over and gladly add my words of praise for Dreco."

In commenting on the above, D. H. Fulton, the specialist Dreco representative, said, "Many people do not realize that an inactive liver in many cases constitutes the underlying cause of their troubles. Get the liver to acting properly, the cause then being removed, the outward effects soon disappear." Mr. Fulton makes headquarters at O'Donnell's main store, 904 F street, where he is daily meeting the people and explaining the merits of this great herbal remedy. Dreco is also sold in Anacostia at Bury's Drug Store. In Alexandria at Allen's Drug Store. Price $1.00 everywhere.—Adv.

discovered that they can win in the coming election independently of 500,000 or more colored votes and intend to be more economic in their promises to the colored brother by not reinvesting him to the fold. J. C. CUNNINGHAM.

FINDS UNUSUAL LABOR UNREST OVER COUNTRY

Frank Morrison, of Federation of Labor, Says Shorter Hours Is Demand of Employers.

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, who has just returned from Pittsburgh, and Youngstown, Ohio, says in regard to labor conditions in the great industrial centers of this country: "There is a greater unrest on this May 1 than has been manifest in many previous years. To some, this condition is alarming. To me it is encouraging, for I believe discontent is a sign of life-of-progress."

"Workers are demanding an eight-hour day, and I venture the opinion that most of the large strikes today, either now or prospective, are because of this shorter workday demand. "It is impossible to estimate the number of workers that will be on strike May 1, for the reason that discontent cannot be tabulated or placed in statistical form."

Programs for Blind Planned.

Musical and reading programs for the benefit of the National Library for the Blind, 175 H street northwest, will be given at the institution tomorrow night and Saturday afternoon. Miss Harriet Winslow, soprano, will sing tomorrow. She will be accompanied by Miss Elsie Sergeant. Miss Edith Long will entertain at the meeting Saturday afternoon.

Urges Air Raids on Germany.

London, April 29.—Proposing that the government amalgamate the flying services and form a board of aviation under a minister of equal power of the war and admiralty heads, Lord Montague addressed an aircraft meeting here today. He said the government should inaugurate expeditions and start bombardment of the enemy's country.

D. C. Heads Without Jurisdiction.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday informed Congress that it is the belief of the members of the commission that they have no jurisdiction over the sale of gas by local gaslight companies to suburbs outside the District. The report was sent in response to a resolution of inquiry introduced in the House by Representative Cary.
